MiddleHouse Development

Real Estate Marketing

Objective: To build trust and establish a strong social presence (Currently working on)

Strategy: Perform Macro analysis with SWOT analysis. Combine explorative insight into a long-term actionable content strategy. Generate content targeting unaware audiences from the top of the funnel and convert them back to leads

My Contribution: Conducted audience analysis, developed content concepts, built the content strategy, and made content targeting each pain point

Unpublished Client Proposals — MiddleHouse Development

Real Estate Marketing

Objective: Position MiddleHouse as an alternative to conventional high-density living by highlighting everyday pain points experienced by urban residents

Strategy: Develop a top-of-funnel pain-point campaign that reframes familiar urban frustrations into housing problems. Each creative isolates one recognizable experience—traffic delays, crowded elevators, or paying for rarely used amenitie

My Contribution: Identified the consumer pain points, developed the campaign concepts and messaging, and designed the three creatives around distinct insights

Personal Projects - New York Fries

Inspired Projects

Objective: Apply marketing and consumer psychology principles by developing independent concept campaigns for New York Fries, inspired by firsthand customer interactions and observations

Strategy: Analyzed competitor campaigns, studied New York Fries' visual identity and brand personality, and translated customer insights into emotionally driven promotional concepts using visual storytelling and product-focused messaging.

Personal Learning

Objective: Strengthen my understanding of visual storytelling, design principles, and brand communication by recreating marketing concepts for well-known brands.

Strategy: Studied each brand's visual identity, target audience, and positioning, then applied typography, colour theory, composition, and consumer psychology to communicate a single compelling marketing message through every design. Try to recreate the second one from scratch.

Meta Ad Experiment

Objective: Test paid social acquisition on a personally managed Instagram brand while developing hands-on experience with Meta Ads, audience targeting, and campaign performance analysis.

Strategy: Developed original niche-specific content, selected audience targeting, and launched a low-budget traffic campaign to test whether paid distribution could efficiently convert content exposure into link clicks.

Result: Generated 392 link clicks from ~C$14 in total ad spend (~C$0.04 CPC), reaching 2,032 accounts across 2,198 impressions during a five-day campaign.
